Title: Minimum Necessary Policy for Internal and Non-Routine Disclosure of PHI and EPHI

Purpose:

To define the standard practice In order to assure that consumer's protected health information is properly safeguarded in undertaking many of the uses and disclosures of internal and non-routine information allowed under Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA) of 1996 including the privacy rule and the security rule.

Scope:

This policy applies to all employees (including full-time employees, part-time employees, contractual providers, volunteers, students or interns) of Huron Behavioral Health. It also applies to all consumer's Protected Health Information (PHI) and Electronic Protected Health Information (EPHI).

Information:

- In accordance with the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA) of 1996:
 - that there are uses and disclosures that could routinely occur at HBH that do not require a signed HIPAA authorization from the consumer or the consumer's personal representative, as applicable. HBH personnel, however, shall continue to obtain the consumer's written consent under State law for disclosures or consumer information made outside the agency
 - that when using and disclosing PHI for treatment, payment, and health care operational purposes, HBH must make reasonable efforts to limit the amount of consumer PHI and EPHI used and disclosed to that which is minimally necessary to accomplish the intended purpose of the use.
- HIPAA defines "Protected Health Information" (this includes EPHI) broadly as any health information, including consumer demographic information, that is created or received by a provider and:
 - which relates to the past, present or future physical or mental health condition of a consumer, the provision of health care to the consumer or payment related to the provision of health care to the consumer; and
 - that identifies or can be reasonably used to identify a consumer (ie; Social Security #, Case #, etc)
- Since PHI and EPHI is defined so broadly, in a practical sense, nearly all information maintained by HBH relating to individuals serviced is considered PHI and is subject to the HIPAA privacy and security rules when using, disclosing, or storing it. Examples of documents containing PHI/EPHI include but are not limited to:
 - The entire contents of the consumer's case record
 - Service Activity Reports
 - Progress Notes
 - Billing Information
 - EOBs (Explanation of Benefits)
 - Lab/Test Results
 - Prescriptions
 - Consumer data appearing on a computer monitor or stored electronically
- To assure that information is properly safeguarded in undertaking many of the uses and disclosures of information, the HIPAA privacy rule requires healthcare and behavioral healthcare providers to take reasonable steps to limit the use and disclosure of PHI/EPHI to the minimum necessary to accomplish the intended purpose.

- Since applying the minimum necessary standard to certain uses and disclosures could unnecessarily interfere with treatment and is unnecessary in some situations, the minimum necessary standard does NOT apply to:
 - Disclosures of PHI/EPHI to a health care provider or requests by a health care provider for information for treatment purposes
 - Disclosures to the consumer at his/her request
 - Uses and Disclosures made in connection with a signed authorization (note - the authorization must specify the exact information to be used/disclosed and HBH must abide by the stated authorization)
 - Disclosures required to be made to the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services (MDHHS) in connection with the government's enforcement of HIPAA and other uses and disclosures required by law.
- Accordingly, for most behavioral health providers, the minimum necessary rule will come into play most often with regard to internal uses and external disclosures of PHI/EPHI in connection with treatment activities, payment activities, and health care operations. For example, it would not be appropriate for a compliance auditor hired by HBH to conduct an internal compliance review to have free access to all consumer medical records and information.
- HIPAA breaks the minimum necessary requirements into two sections: 1.) internal uses and disclosures and 2.) external uses and disclosures of information. This policy addresses the internal uses of the minimum necessary requirements and non-routine disclosures (for routine external disclosures of PHI/EPHI, see ORI.1.13).
- With regard to the internal uses and sharing of information within HBH, the HIPAA rules require that HBH:
 - Identify all individuals (e.g., physicians, social workers, other health professionals, nurses, coders and other finance individuals involved in the billing, administration, etc.) at HBH who need access to consumer PHI/EPHI to perform their jobs
 - Determine for each category of individuals needing access to consumer PHI/EPHI, the categories of PHI/EPHI which are needed and any conditions that apply to permitting access to the information
 - Make reasonable efforts to limit access to information in accordance with the above
- HBH has developed a minimum necessary table as noted below and has tailored policies which are consistent with the table. HBH has conducted this determination based on how the organization operates and what is reasonable for our business needs.
- For internal audit team activities, members may be rotated and will have access to PHI/EPHI as part of the audit function, which is not part of their normal job description (see HIPAA Audit Procedure ORI.2.05).
- HBH safeguards the confidentiality of the consumer's identification in its quality improvement projects, activities, and reports to the degree necessary and in accordance with HBH's Privacy and Security policies.
- HBH has applied the minimum necessary requirement guidelines to all internal uses by developing a table (see pages 5 and 6) to list categories of access to PHI/EPHI as noted above for both internal and external disclosures. As discussed below, the privacy rule applies different requirements for complying with the minimum necessary rule depending on whether the disclosure is (1) routine or (2) non-routine.
- For routine and recurring disclosures of PHI/EPHI made by HBH to outside parties, the HIPAA rule requires HBH to implement standard policies and procedures that limit the PHI/EPHI disclosed to the amount reasonably necessary to achieve the purposes of the disclosure (see ORI.1.13). HBH is not required to make an individual determination for each disclosure but simply adhere to the standard protocols defined.
- For non-routine disclosures, HBH has developed internal criteria for employees to follow which are designed to limit the information disclosed to that information that is reasonably necessary to accomplish the purpose for the disclosure. For non-routine disclosures, HBH must review requests for disclosure on an individual case-by-case basis in accordance with the defined criteria.

- Effective 04/13/11, HBH has implemented a process to randomly verify employee accesses to the electronic medical record (EMR) in regards to the "Need to Know" HIPAA guidelines (see also "Monitoring Employee Access to EMR/EHR Procedure" ORI.2.09).
- Effective 09/23/13, HBH must also comply with the HITECH (Health Information Technology for Economic and Clinical Health Act) legislation which requires additional security measures relative to encrypting, destruction of PHI/EPHI, additional privacy and security requirements placed upon business associates, and notification of breaches of PHI and EPHI (see also "Breach Notification Policy" ORI.1.31).

Policy:

1. Uses, Access, and Disclosures relative to PHI/EPHI, restrictions on "Need to know" and "Minimum Necessary" Rules under HIPAA, and Disciplinary Actions/Sanctions:

HBH employees shall not use, access, acquire, or disclose any consumer PHI/EPHI for personal purposes. HIPAA breach notification (45 CFR subsection 164.402) prohibits any impermissible acquisition, access, use, or disclosure of PHI which compromises the privacy, confidentiality, or security of any consumer's PHI. This includes accessing consumer's electronic and/or paper records. HBH's EMR system tracks all accesses into a consumer's records. HBH makes a good faith effort to monitor employee access activities through on-going audits in an effort to assure that all EPHI is safeguarded against improper use, access, and/or disclosure by staff. HBH has strict sanctions/penalties when records evidence that an employee has violated the HIPAA and breach regulations.

Employees are trained annually in HIPAA and other Corporate Compliance topics. This includes two (2) basic HIPAA Rules related to "Need to Know" and "Minimum Necessary". In clear terms, "Need to Know" means that unless staff has a valid reason (treatment, payment, or operations) to see a consumer's PHI/EPHI, they are prohibited by federal law from acquiring, accessing, using, or disclosing such information. Minimum necessary refers to using, accessing, or disclosing only the absolute minimum amount of information necessary for the intended work-related purpose (treatment, payment, and operations). These rules must be strictly adhered to by all employees at all times.

HBH personnel and disciplinary policies do not mandate a lesser sanction/disciplinary action before HBH may terminate an employee for a HIPAA violation. HBH has the discretion of terminating an employee for a first offense if the seriousness of the offense warrants such action. An employee should expect to lose his/her job for willful or grossly negligent violations to HIPAA regulations, Federal Laws, or State Laws protecting integrity, confidentiality, and security of protected health information.

Employees should also be aware that violations to HBH's privacy, security, and compliance policies and standards may constitute a criminal offense under HIPAA, federal laws, or state laws. Any employee who violates such a law may expect that HBH will provide information concerning the violation to the appropriate law enforcement authorities and will cooperate with any law enforcement investigation and/or criminal prosecution.

Further, these violations may also constitute violations of professional ethics and may be grounds for professional discipline and/or loss of licensure. Any employee subject to professional ethics guidelines and/or professional discipline should expect that HBH will report such violations to the appropriate licensure/accreditation agencies and to cooperate with any professional investigations or determinations/actions.

2. Internal Access of PHI and EPHI:

For uses of PHI and EPHI within the agency, HBH has identified all employees (by job category) who need access to protected health information and has identified the type of PHI and EPHI to which each category of employee needs access to perform their job. HBH has developed a matrix by job type to clearly define the necessary information and the limitations upon employees to access the information in order to conduct their specific job functions.

3. Disclosures to Third Parties:

- a. Disclosures of PHI and EPHI that do not occur on a routine basis must be reviewed individually to determine the minimum amount of information that should be disclosed to achieve the stated purpose of the disclosure, based upon the following criteria:
 - Determine whether the requestor was specific about the type of information that is needed (e.g., demographics, financial/billing, portions of the medical record, etc.)
 - If the requestor was not specific, ask the requestor specifically what information is needed and why it is needed
 - If the requestor requests the entire medical record, ask the requestor to justify why the entire medical record is needed. Employees should not disclose an entire medical record until satisfactory justification is provided by the requestor (i.e. court order, consumer request).
 - Determine whether the requestor is a person who can be relied upon:
 - When making a permissible disclosure to a public official, HBH staff may rely on the public official's representations regarding the amount of information needed.

- When making a disclosure to another covered entity (e.g. a provider, health plan or clearinghouse), HBH staff may rely on the requestor's representations regarding the amount of information needed.
- HBH staff may rely upon the professional judgment of a business associate (see definition section) to determine what information is needed for the performance of professional services (for example, a financial auditing firm or a contracted service provider).
- If the employee has any question regarding the appropriateness of the scope of the request, the employee should ask the Privacy Liaison or the Executive Director for guidance before disclosing the information.
- Employees are responsible for verifying the identity of a requestor if the employee does not know the requestor.

4. Application of the minimum necessary rule where HBH is the requestor:

HIPAA requires HBH to restrict requests for information to the minimum necessary to achieve the intended purpose of the requested disclosure. Requests for PHI/EPHI should be made subject to the following criteria:

- Requests should be as specific as possible with respect to the amount of information needed
- Requests should not be for entire medical records unless absolutely necessary
- Employees should be prepared to provide justification for the scope of the request

5. Change in status requiring modification to existing rights to access EPHI:

It is policy of HBH that when an individual ceases employment or otherwise providing services at HBH or experiences a change in status with HBH (e.g., through termination, resignation, retirement, change of positions within HBH), the following steps will be taken as soon as possible, depending on whether the individual is leaving HBH or is experiencing a change in status requiring modification to existing rights to access EPHI:

- Increase or decrease the individual's ability to access EPHI (such as making adjustments to the type(s) of EPHI that the individual should have access to depending on new status);
- The individual's password to all computer systems will be disabled or deleted;
- All remote access will be terminated;
- The individual will be asked to return all keys and keycards;
- The individual will be asked to return his or her name badge; and
- The individual will undergo an exit interview that includes a discussion of the confidentiality of PHI including EPHI. See "Exit Interview & End of Employment Checklist" (90-279)

The Security Officer is responsible for overseeing that a procedure is put in place to assure the HR department and IT department have systems in place to ensure timely coordination so that access to EPHI is promptly discontinued upon termination of employment.
